November Highlights

Maggie Stewart- "Silk Scarf Dying"

Saturday, November 18, 2023 -- 9am - 3pm

What a wonderful Saturday. We started with plain white scarves and ended with plethora of color.

We all painted two scarves, started with taping the scarf to a frame, then spraying it with a medium to stop the paint from bleeding. We then used soy wax to mark areas/lines that were not to be colored, then painted the scarf with permanent fabric paint. Maggie took the scarves away to be steamed. I know I am so excited to see the final result.

Thank you, Jennifer Bird, for the great write up and pictures.

Workshops

Deb Rosenbaum - "Narrative Collage Workshop"

Saturday, January 20, 2024 -- 9am - 3pm

Ascension Lutheran Church

1701 W. Caley Ave.

Littleton, CO 80120

Storytelling is a basic human need like breathing. Explaining and documenting our lives, even just to ourselves, is a powerful tool for understanding and growth.

In this workshop, you will learn about organizing a picture space to visually illustrate a personal experience, memory, or story in collage. Collages can become a confusing mass of images, so we'll look at how arrangement of line, shape, color, image, and movement can clearly communicate an idea. We'll create some small practice studies followed by specific story prompts as we explore ways to effectively organize a work of art.

All required materials are included, but feel free to bring any printed/patterned papers you may already have on hand, as well as personal paper ephemera. You can also bring any special art tools you like to use.
